Principle of operation. When transmitting, a high-gain antenna allows more of the transmitted power to be sent in the direction of the receiver, increasing the received signal strength. When receiving, a high gain antenna captures more of the signal, again increasing signal strength. Due to reciprocity, these two effects are equal"an antenna that makes a transmitted signal 100 times stronger ...

Figure 2 shows an active electronic implementation of a first-order high-pass filter using an operational amplifier. In this case, the filter has a passband gain of $-R_2/R_1$ and has a cutoff frequency of $\omega_c = \frac{1}{RC}$. Because this filter is active, it may have non-unity passband gain. That is, high-frequency signals are inverted and amplified by R_2/R_1 . Discrete-time realization
